Unseasonable rain contributes to local power outage

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

About 1,800 households and businesses in West Sacramento found themselves without electricity for up to six hours Monday evening. The power outage – inconveniencing residents and closing stores – was caused by a "weather-related" equipment failure, said utility spokesperson Jann Taber.

Monday, the region experienced unseasonably damp weather.

The outage was occurred north of the freeway, bounded roughly by Jefferson Blvd., Poplar Ave. and Sacramento Ave.

Taber said that the first outage was reported after 5 p.m., and that homes were brought back online in groups – with the last customers receiving juice again after 11 p.m.

An exact cause for the blackout was not immediately known.

The West Sacramento Police Department was just inside the blackout area – but the department is equipped with generators for backup electricity and functioned uninterrupted, said police spokesperson Officer Amy Weirich.

City negotiates for seniors' site

■ New senior center may arise from parcel close to Arthur F. Turner Branch Library

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento officials believe they are close to a deal to buy for a new senior citizens' center. The proposed site, privately owned and made up of just over an acre, is located on the south side of West Capitol Ave. It has frontage on both Merkley Ave. and West Capitol Ave., said Assistant City Manager Carol Richardson, although not all of the parcel may be used for a senior citizens' center.

Located at 1271 West Capitol, the site is essentially across the street from the planned new $14.4 million civic center project at 1110 West Capitol. The two projects had been planned as part of the same project – but a prior land deal fell through, and the 1110 West Capitol project wasn't deemed adequate for both city hall and a senior center.

Richardson described the senior center proposal as "about 10,000 square feet."

"We're going to have a large room for serving meals and for other gatherings, with a kitchen facility," she said. "It will probably be open (for seniors) for most of the day."

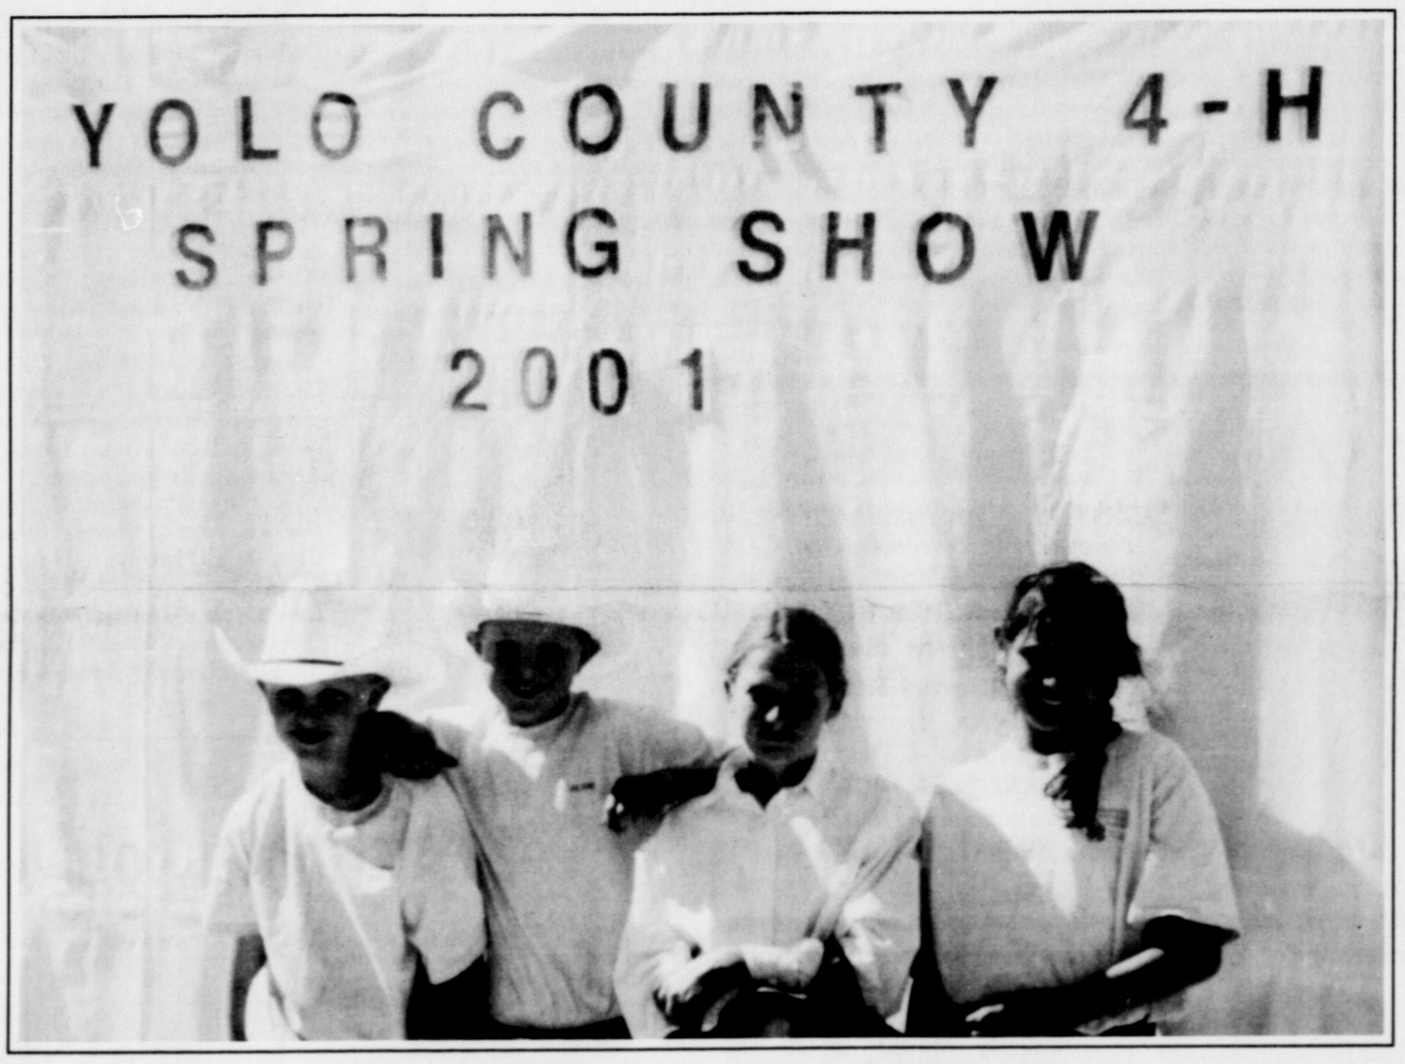

The West Sacramento City Council last week approved the solicitation of bids for the city hall project, which is to include a 47,000-square foot office building for all city departments except the police, public works and parks division (and fire stations); a two-story building with a reception area on the first floor and city council chambers on the second; and meeting rooms for approximately 175 people.

The city currently uses a rented site on Halyard Dr. as "city hall."

Construction is expected to begin in August for the new city hall project.

Plans and construction schedule are not complete for the senior center project.

Aw, shucks

Kevin and Calvin Langford, Rachel Risso and Caity Silva are all smiles after entering horses in the Yolo County 4-H Spring show. Fellow West Sacramentan Valencia Dussault also entered a horse. Signups for 4-H projects begin in September.

When temps go up & power goes off: find a 'cooling center'

West Sacramento is among the Yolo County cities that will offer "cooling centers" to provide a local refuge during times of extreme temperatures and extended blackouts.

"The site we've identified is the West Sacramento Senior Center (on Cummins Way)," said Bill Summers, hazardous materials manager for the West Sacramento Fire Department. "My understanding is that the cooling centers are associated with the possibility of a blackout – if a blackout goes beyond a certain period of time, like perhaps a couple of hours, they will open."

Earlier "rotating outages" planned by utility companies to handle high demand for power during heat waves lasted about an hour to an hour and a half. The county "cooling centers" are planned to open in the event of an unplanned power outage that stretches longer than that. A prolonged blackout during a heat wave could shut down air conditioning and drive indoor temperatures up – a potential health hazard.

Cooling centers are selected partly because they have backup generators to continue operating their air conditioning systems.

Transportation to the cooling centers won't be provided.

Summers said that other possible cooling centers in West Sacramento are still being negotiated.

To find out if a cooling center is open during a heat wave and blackout, residents may contact the fire department headquarters at 373-5840. Don't call 911.

Annual city fireworks show returns

By Art Schroeder
City of West Sacramento

For the fifth consecutive year, "BridgeFest" -- the city's free fireworks spectacular will light up the night on Tuesday, July 3. The prime viewing area for the show will be the 540 foot-long Daniel C. Palamidessi Bridge. The bridge will be closed to vehicle traffic beginning at 6 p.m. Bring your own blanket and folding chair.

Pre-fireworks activities also begin at 6 p.m. with live music in the former City Hall parking lot at 2101 Stone Boulevard. The site includes an area for arts and crafts, in addition to a kids zone. Refreshments will be on sale throughout BridgeFest. Admission is free.

The best area for parking will be along Industrial Boulevard, north of the bridge. The public can enter the free parking area by taking Harbor Boulevard south to Industrial Boulevard, then turn left and proceed toward the Daniel C. Palamidessi Bridge. Other areas affected by 6 p.m. road closures are: Lake Washington Boulevard north from Southport Boulevard across the bridge; Stone Boulevard from Cebrian Street west to the bridge; and Industrial Boulevard from Terminal Street east to the bridge. The closures are expected to be lifted at 10:30 p.m., following the fireworks.

BridgeFest commemorates the opening of the Daniel C. Palamidessi Bridge in July, 1997. Constructed in just one, the bridge provided a much-needed link to the northern and southern sections of the city. The bridge is named for Daniel C. Palamidessi, a West Sacramento native claimed by leukemia in 1991 at the age of 27. Danny's courageous fight brought the community together in search of suitable bone marrow donors. Though none was found for Danny, a list of local donors for other leukemia patients around the nation was established.

BridgeFest 2001 is sponsored by Summit Commercial, Bridgeway Island, Nor-Cal Beverage, Sacramento Auto Glass and the Port of Sacramento. The West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce is coordinating the event for the City of West Sacramento. For more information, contact the Chamber at 371-7042.

(Private, unlicensed use of fireworks is illegal in West Sacramento.)

Stabbing victims recovering

All four victims are out of the hospital, but no arrests have been made in the multiple stabbing that took place on the 1700-block of Merkley Ave. on May 18.

Officer Amy Weirich, the spokesperson for the West Sacramento Police Dept., said the investigation continues and investigators could offer no comment on a possible motive in the attack.

Three of the adult male victims were West Sacramento residents and a fourth man was from Elk Grove.

Recalling a few of the many horrors of dating

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

Recently, my daughter and her longtime boyfriend broke up, and she has reluctantly started dating again. The other night, after returning from dinner with a nice young man she had met in one of her college classes, she strolled over to the chair I was sitting in, tapped me on the shoulder (I was reading a very interesting book about the fact that most of our best American writers have been drunks) and asked, "Dad, was dating this stressful back in the old days?"

"Well," I said, trying to recall what going out on a date was like back around the turn of the last century, "if I remember right, it wasn't usually as much fun as it was cracked up to be. Why? Didn't you have a good time tonight?"

"It was an okay date, I guess," she said without much enthusiasm, "but it's always so nerve-wracking talking to someone for the first time."

"But I thought you said you talk to this guy all the time in class."

"I do, but this was different."

"How so?"

She looked over at me as she often does when she's pretty sure I simply don't have a clue and said, "Oh, that's okay, Dad, I think I'll go talk to Mom about it. You probably wouldn't understand. It's girl stuff."

As my daughter went off in search of her mother, I sat back in my chair and it wasn't long before I was flooded with ancient memories of some of the pressures and tensions that seemed to go hand-in-hand with dating.

First, there was the terror of actually asking the girl out (and why was it that back in the 60s the guy always had to ask the girl out? And why did that all suddenly change about a week or so after I got married?)

Second, back when I was a teenager, a guy had to worry about the answers to some of the following questions: What happens if she says no? What if all my friends find out that she said no? Worse yet, what if she says yes? Will my father let me use the good car? Will he give me some money so I'll be able to put some gas in the good car? Where do I take her if she says yes? Will she want to go to a movie or is she sick of going to movies? If she does want to go to a movie, will I be able to talk her into going to the drive-in (where it only cost $1.50 a carload) or will she insist on going downtown to one of the fancy (and expensive) indoor theaters? What kind of movies does she like? Will I get stuck going to one of those god-awful romantic ones? Will she want to go somewhere less boring than the movies? Where will I get the money to take her somewhere less boring than the movies? Will she want to go to dinner? Please, Lord, not dinner! And if I do have to take her to dinner, will she notice that I sometimes make strange noises when I chew, even when my mouth is closed? Will something green or black (it was always one of those two colors) get stuck between my teeth? Will she wait until the dinner is almost over (this actually happened once) before she informs me that she has an extremely jealous former boyfriend who wants to be a Mafia hit man once he graduates from high school? Will her mother and sisters be looking out the windows when I walk her up to the front door? Should I kiss her goodnight? How will I know if she wants me to kiss her goodnight (there were very few clues back then)? And if we do get close enough to kiss goodnight, will she notice that I only have one long eyebrow, instead of the two normal ones most guys have?

Plus there was always the unexpected, like the very chilly fall night in 1964 when I was happily motoring along towards the old Starlite Drive-In Theater with a young lady I had been trying to get to go out with me for over a year. She was everything I had ever wanted in a girl -- smart, pretty, funny, and liked by everyone. Anyway, we were both a little nervous, it being our first date and everything, and we hadn't said a word to each other for miles when, with absolutely no warning, she (although she still tells people it was me), well, she cut the cheese.

With the radio not working (my father had made me take my own car) and the windows all rolled up tight against the cold, it pretty much sounded like a bomb had gone off. Did she and I even look at each other? No way. Did I have the courage to crack open my window and let in some fresh air? Absolutely not! Instead, we both just looked straight ahead, pretended that nothing out of the ordinary had happened, and tried real hard not to take any deep breaths.

So, when it comes to the horrors of dating, I think Jerry Seinfeld had it right when he said, "What is a date really, but just another anxiety producing job interview that happens to last most of the night. And the only real difference is that unlike most job interviews, there's a slight chance that you might end up naked at the end of it."

Tony Venditti update: Tony is now out of the hospital and in a rehabilitation center. His mother, Carolyn, reports that Tony's accident resulted in a ruptured spinal cord (5th cervical vertebra) and a depressed skull fracture, which led to brain injuries which are still being evaluated. Although Tony is paralyzed from the chest down, he is breathing on his own, smiling, and cooperating with Carolyn when she cares for him.

To read Carolyn's latest updates on Tony's condition, go to the web at www.tonyv98.com. E-mails (which are being saved for Tony) can be sent to: tonyv98@onebox.com. And the family requests that everyone please keep praying for Tony as he continues to fight to get better.

SPORTS

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

Most of the sports world takes a short vacation this time of year with the NBA, NHL and NFL in between seasons and Major League baseball heads toward their mid-season classic All-Star game in Seattle on July 10th. The Giants could land up to four players on the All-Star team with Dusty Baker on the coaching staff. He may have some influence in the selection of the pitching staff or the selection of shortstop Rich Aurilia. Aurilia is leading the National League in batting with his .342 average. Expect Barry Bonds and Jeff Kent, who are leading the fan voting, to be starting at their positions. Russ Ortiz, Rob Nen and Shawn Estes have a slim chance to crack the line-up of all-stars. The only all-star representing Oakland this year will be Jason Giambi.

The Giants (41-35) played themselves out a few games in St. Louis but are still only 5 games out of first place in the west and trail the Atlanta Braves by 1 game in the wild card chase. The Giants are home this week to face their archival Dodgers in a short three game series which started on Monday night with a 5-2 Giants victory. The media pressure is on Mr. Bonds every time he steps to the plate. Barry Bonds has 39 home runs and is on pace to hit 82 home runs in one season. I don't think he'll 82 Hr's but I think he can hit 70 if can stay healthy and the opposing pitchers give him some decent pitches to hit. The Giants will host Big Mac this weekend when the St. Louis Cardinals invade Pac Bell Park for a three game series.

Across the bay the Oakland A's (35-39) had rough weekend with the Texas Rangers and still trail the Seattle Mariners by 20 games. The A's will head up north on Tuesday night for a three game series against the division leading Mariners in Seattle.

The NBA draft on Wednesday will take the high lights this week with the Sacramento Kings shopping around their point guard Jason Williams. The Orlando Magic, who own the 13th pick in the draft, are showing some interest in homeboy, Jason Williams. The Magic want the former Florida basketball star so bad that they are willing to part with their No. 1 pick and toss in a veteran player or two. The Kings are faced with decision of signing and trading Chris Webber and Jason Williams or take their chances that the players will sign a return contract to play for the Kings next season. The draft on Wednesday is the beginning of the Kings 2002 NBA season!

The River Cats and Grizzlies battled all week with Fresno winning 4 out 6 games and their slim 2 game lead on the Gatos for first place in the PCL South division. Last year the Gatos clawed the Grizzlies winning 13 out 16 games but this year Fresno won the series with 9-7 record. The River Cats will travel to Colorado Springs for four games and then move on to Salt Lake City before they return to Raley Field on the 4th of July.

Head coach Bruce Arena made a couple of line-up changes for the big show down with Mexico on Sunday. Goalkeeper Brad Friedel is omitted; MLS keepers Tom Presthus and Nick Rimando have been added. Eddie Lewis, John O'Brien and Eddie Pope are not on the squad, while midfielder Claudio Reyna is suspended for the game. Midfielder Chris Henderson will make his first appearance in camp since October, and Cobi Jones returns from his suspension.

A victory would give the USA (4-0-1) a commanding lead in the six-nation CONCACAF standings with 13 points out of a possible 15 and the chance to clinch a trip to its fourth consecutive World Cup when the team plays Mexico on July 1 in Mexico City. For the first time in 20 years the Mexican National team is faced with a must win game. Mexico, who is in 5th place, fired there coach last week and has only 4 points. The top three teams advance to the World Cup in Japan/Korea in 2002.

Oscar De La Hoya won his do or die fight on Saturday night against the WBC Super Welterweight Champion Javier Castillejo. It was a boring match but De La Hoya easily outpointed the Spaniard with his boxing skills. Next up for the new WBC champion is a rematch with either Shane Mosley or the other undefeated champion, Felix Trinidad.

See ya in two weeks!

Each bid must conform and be responsive to this notice and shall be made on the official proposal forms furnished with the contract documents.

Hand delivered bids on the day of the bid opening shall be made to the director of community development at the address set forth above. Mailed bids must be received by the City prior to the hour and date of the bid opening and shall be addressed to Stephen Patek, The Director of Community Development, 1951 South River Road, West Sacramento, CA 95691.

Attention is directed to the provisions of the Business and Professions Code Section 7028.15 which makes it a misdemeanor for any person without a valid contractors license (with specific exceptions) to submit a bid to act as a Contractor to a public agency.

A-4. Proposal Guarantee

Each bid must be sealed and accompanied by cash, a cashier's check, certified check or bid bond, executed on the prescribed form, in an amount not less than ten (10) percent of the total bid price payable to the City of West Sacramento.

The cash, cashier's check, certified check or bid bond shall be given as a guarantee that the successful bidder will enter into a written contract within ten (10) days after being requested to do so and will be considered as the stipulated amount of liquidated damages in the event the bidder is unable to or refuses to execute a contract for the work. Upon an award to the successful bidder, the security of unsuccessful bidders shall be returned in a reasonable period of time.

Bidders are hereby notified that in accordance with the provisions of Public Contracts Code section 22300, securities may be substituted for any monies, which the City may withhold pursuant to the terms of this Contract to ensure performance.

If the bidder elects to provide a bid bond, a company that is authorized and licensed by the Insurance Commissioner as an "admitted surety insurer" shall furnish the bond.

A-5. Construction License

The successful bidder must possess a current B Contractor's License issued by the State of California at the time of bid and shall be maintained throughout the duration of the project.

A-6. Award

The award shall be made to the lowest responsible bidder whose proposal complies with the specified requirements. The award of Contract will be made by the City Council. The Contractor shall execute the Contract within ten (10) days after he has received the Contract from the City.

The City reserves the right to waive any irregularity in the proposals. No bid may be withdrawn for a period of sixty (60) days after the opening of bids.

A-7. Rejection of Bids

The City will award the bid to the lowest responsible bidder and reserves the right to reject all bids. See Section B-13 which sets forth the process by which the City will award the bid.

A-8. Disqualification of Bidder

If there is a reason to believe that collusion exists among any bidders, none of the bids of the participants in such collusion will be considered and the City may likewise elect to reject all bids received.

A-9. Relief of Bidder

Attention is directed to the provisions of Public Contracts Code Section 5101 and following, concerning relief of bidders and in particular to the requirements therein that if the bidder claims a mistake was made in his bid, the bidder shall give the City written notice, within five (5) days after the opening of bids of the alleged mistake, specifying in the notice, in detail, how the mistake occurred.

A-10. Prevailing Wages

Bidders are hereby notified that the California Director of Industrial Relations has determined the general prevailing rate of per diem wages and the rates for overtime and holiday work in the locality in which the work is to be performed for each craft, classification, or type of worker needed to execute the contract which will be awarded to the successful bidder. Copies of the prevailing wage rates are on file with and available upon request from the Engineer. The requirement to pay these wage rates and rates not so specified, is further detailed in Section E-3 of General Conditions. It shall be mandatory for the Contractor and any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said specified rates to laborers and workmen employed by them in the execution of the Contract.

A-11. Bonds

Contract bonds per sections B-14 and B-16 of this contract.

Sweet Revenge: It's A Food Fight With Father Time

(NAPS)—This year, Americans will spend roughly $110 billion on fast food. In today's fast-paced world, finding time seems impossible.

When it comes to health, you can achieve a better body on a limited time budget.

Mind Your 'Peas And Cues':

A diet rich in fruits and vegetables, whole grains and portioned lean meats, fish and poultry is crucial to slimming down.

Purchasing pre-cut fruits and vegetables helps you shave preparation time and allows you to reach for a healthy midday snack instead of junk food.

But we're human, and our bodies give cues that they're craving sweets. Sugar, however, adds empty calories to your diet.

To cut calories, try using a sugar substitute such as Sweet'N Low®. It fares well in cooking and baking and satisfies your sweet tooth.

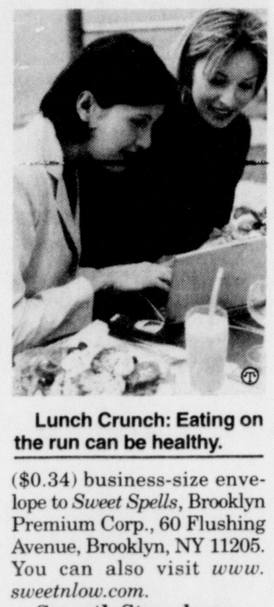

Even sweeter, recent scientific developments prompted the government to pass legislation that removes warning labels from all saccharin-sweetened products, including Sweet'N Low.

Get Physical:

Engage in physical activity for 15 minutes 3 times per day. Computer-bound folks can stretch or take a short walk 2-3 times per day to burn additional calories.

With an estimated 97 million Americans considered overweight, slimming down is much more than vanity. It's about leading healthier and longer lives, minute by minute.

MANAGING YOUR MONEY

10 Ways To Find The Fat In Your Budget

by Mary Rowland, MSN MoneyCentral Expert in Mutual Funds & Financial Planning

(NAPS)—Finding the fat in your budget may not sound sexy, but try visualizing the new, svelte you—financially speaking. In just a few years, it's possible to change your lifestyle for the better by simply adhering to a few budgetary constraints. Here are my top 10 ways to trim up your budget:

1. Focus on fixed expenses: Just because they're "fixed," it doesn't mean they're not negotiable. Many items are fixed only in that they come out of your paycheck every month, or you write checks for them automatically—like rent and life insurance.

2. Rent or mortgage: Your home is your castle, but can you afford the one you have? Moving is not something you're going to do tomorrow, but if your castle is eating up more than 25 percent of your income, start making long-term plans.

3. Utilities: Turn down the heat and air conditioning. Analyze your phone needs. Do you need so many lines? Is your cell phone essential?

4. Insurance: If your term life insurance policy is five or more years old, you're in for a pleasant surprise: you can almost certainly get a better rate. Increase the deductibles on your auto and homeowner's policies, and drop collision insurance if your car is paid for. Don't skip disability insurance, though. If you can't work due to a disability, you could jeopardize everything without insurance.

5. Groceries: Is there really that much of a difference between generic and name brand products? Do you really enjoy the prepared foods you buy? Could you make something fresh and simple—and cheaper?

6. Clothing: What can we say? The biggest enemy of a clothing budget is impulse. You need a strategy. Make a list of what you need. Shop from your list. Buy the best you can afford. Think about all the stuff hanging in your closet.

7. Transportation: This item can eat up 50 percent of a budget. Take a hard look at where you can save. Set a budget for transportation. Negotiate for bargain air fares. Cars are better made and last much longer than they used to. Get one you like. Take good care of it—and keep it two or three years longer. Walk instead of taking a cab.

8. Household and babysitting help: It's tough cutting corners here. If you've found a good caretaker for your children, don't cut his or her pay. Supportive people to help in your business and home can make your life run much more smoothly.

9. Credit: This one has a lot of opportunities for reductions. Pick up two months' worth of credit card bills and total up the interest you paid. If you pay off your credit cards, you will save that much every month.

10. Taxes: Contribute to your 401(k) and make use of healthcare and dependent care spending accounts at work.

So look at discretionary expenses to see what you can do. Think of positive lifestyle changes. Vacations, too, can be thrilling without being costly if you do some research and plan a trip that allows you to explore and further an interest. You can find the fat in your budget—it just takes a little creativity and willingness on your part.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial:

School board notes, plus a thought on cooling down

In the recent past, the process of hiring and firing local school superintendents has often been more of a "political" decision than a "personnel" decision. Grudges, alliances and personal agendas have played a major role.

This time around appears different. The trustees of the Washington Unified School District chose state education administrator Stu Greenfeld after a pretty good recruitment process, including the use of a citizens' panel to help interview candidates. Greenfeld was one of the top choices of virtually everyone involved.

The selection process was a good one.

At least one local business leader is continuing a call, though, for all five board members to step down and make way for fresh blood. This would wipe away the "baggage" accumulated by current board members – even that which they've picked up through no fault of their own – and enable the school district to begin again with a clean slate, he feels.

There's a lot of truth to that argument. But it presumes that there are five "better" school board members out there in the wings ready to take over, and that's something that the community hasn't seen. The field of well-prepared candidates was not deep in the November school board election.

On the other hand, if the current board is to continue, then it needs to begin with an honest evaluation of what has gone wrong in the recent past. It's just about impossible to clean up your act while you're still in denial.

West Sacramento's school politics have taken a back seat to its city politics thus far. Look for that to change in the next election cycle.

Yolo County communities including West Sacramento are planning to open "cooling centers" as refuges for citizens who need to escape the heat in their homes during a possible lengthy summer energy blackout, when air conditioning fails. The centers would only open in the event of an "extended" blackout – longer than the 60-90 minute rotating power outages tentatively planned by PG&E.

It's quite possible that these lengthy blackouts will never occur, and that the cooling centers won't be needed.

But if they are needed, it would also be a good idea for someone to find a way to offer transportation to the cooling centers for those who need it – such as shut-in elderly residents, and other non-drivers.

Perhaps that's a job for a local service club?

Letters to the Editor

In support of Barcenas

I just read the article on Juan Barcenas, it was enough to make me cry and get sick to my stomach.

I have known Juan for over 20 years. He worked at the schools with kids with drug problems, he counseled all of the kids, he was a friend.

This is the thanks Juan gets for his time. He doesn't have a problem, someone else does. He is a warm, kind person and comes from the rare breed of cops we used to have.

No one could break the faith and trust I have in this man. I hope other people will remember him as he really is and not the complaint of one person.

Animal abuse a red flag

Justice has been served in the case of Leo, the beloved, fluffy bichon frise dog snatched from his human companion's lap and flung to his death beneath the wheels of a car. His killer, Andrew Burnett, was prosecuted, found guilty and faces up to three years in prison for his heinous crime.

When Burnett was convicted, the judge was probably thinking of Leo and his guardian, but other potential victims may have been spared, too, because people who abuse animals are likely to turn their anger on other people. The FBI had found that a history of cruelty to animals is one of the traits that regularly appears in its computer records of serial rapists and murderers. Psychiatrists, too, see a fascination with cruelty to animals as a red flag. The standard diagnostic and treatment manual for psychiatric and emotional disorders lists cruelty to animals as a diagnostic criteria for conduct disorders.

Studies of criminals in the U.S. prove the point. The majority of inmates schedules to be executed for murder at California's San Quentin penitentiary "practiced" their crimes on animals, according to the warden. Statistics compiled by a researcher at Yale University show a staggering 80 percent of convicted violent criminals have histories of abusing animals.

Animal abuse should always be taken seriously, for the protection of both animals and humans.

Deukmejian returns

So Secretary of State Bill Jones has chosen former GOP Governor George Deukmejian to head the Jones campaign for the Republican nomination and, ultimately, the California's governor's office, as Mr. Jones hopes to unseat Gray Davis in the 2002 election.

Normally Deukmejian would seem like a wise choice as a big uncle figure who held the same governor's office for 2 terms. But just think back a bit.

The most shocking revelation our now-immediate past governor, Pete Wilson and staff, discovered, was a $14 billion shortfall left him by our then-immediate past governor, George Deukmejian. This allowed Deukmejian to complete his two terms and (apparently) claim no state tax increase under his administration. (Leave the dirty work of raising taxes to successor). This was not financially responsibility, regardless of the successor's political affiliation. This was not responsible leading by example.

My pocketbook fears that behind the scenes, Deukmejian will claim that only a GOP governor can rescue Californians from the high energy costs his fellow GOPers engineered in the first place at the federal level during the 2000 election; i.e., energy middlemen contributing heavily to the Bush-Cheney ticket and have since been reap-

Conflict-Free Diamonds

(NAPS)—As much as 15 percent of the $40 billion in diamonds sold in the U.S. annually represent "conflict diamonds." These gems are mined and sold by rebel groups that use the profits to buy arms to conduct terrorism against legal governments and citizenry.

Sierra Leone and Liberia are remote places to most Americans, yet years-long conflicts fueled by diamond profits have plunged these and neighboring countries into abject poverty. Fortunately, you can help stop the brutality.

When you next buy a diamond—for an engagement or wedding ring, an anniversary gift or other occasion—ask for conflict-free gems, and request that your jeweler only stock such stones.

You can also call or write your congressional representatives and senators, asking them to support the bipartisan Clean Diamonds Act. This bill would transfer money from criminal penalties and the confiscation of contraband diamonds to a child amputee rehabilitation fund and to projects that promote peace and economic development.

For more information about conflict diamonds, call World Vision at 1-888-56-CHILD or visit the Web site at www.worldvision.org.
